The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship.

It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

When Do Americans Stand Still?

Sen. Kennedy repeatedly charges that America is standing still and that his purpose in running for the presidency is to get Americans being a dynamic people, they always are attracted to the idea of making progress. But there are some complications in Sen. Kennedy's proposal for motion for motion's sake.

Chief amng them is the fact he is proposing to build up a head of steam with dollar bills. The probable cost of his plans for stimulating th country is iffy; he refuses to admit it will cost anything at all. But that is ridiculous. All government programs for

Particularly is its operation an old story to women, who will do the bulk of the voting

In the 1956 presidential election, three out of five women were revealed to have cast their votes for the Eisenhower-Nixon ticket, though only a few more than half the men voted for the winning combination.

There was a reason for that. It was because women led the overwhelming vote that swamped the Democratic candidate in 1952. They were not voting against Adlai Stevenson; they were voting against the soaring cost of living during the Truman administration, when the consumer price index had jumped nearly 50 per cent.

yond $200 million by the end of 1961.

They were voting against a war in Korea that women found it hard to understand. They had been told that the government had to wage it but they had not been told how the government proposed to win it. The casualty lists were hard to take under those conditions.

WOMEN CONTROL the outcome of national elections. There are 56 million women of voting age in this election. They outnumber male voters by more than three million. Women rule the ballot box with their numerical majority. The woman's point of view now is given the most painstaking attention by the male candidates who dominate political slates. That is why the 1960 campaigns are making prominent use of women. Candidate Nixon has his wife Pat and candidate Kennedy has not only his wife but his sisters, his sisters-in-law and his mother working for his election.

But no one knows for certain how women will react under these circumstances.

The Republicans hope they will be strongly in favor of keeping taxes from rising, holding down the cost of living and keeping a tight rein on Big Government.

Republicans hope women will be gratefully aware that standards of living have been improving since 1952, that the country has not become involved in war and that the United States offers its citizens more security than they ever had before.

THE DEMOCRATIC candidate hopes women will be imbued with a sense of urgency about his "new frontiers"; that they will be dissatisfied with things as they are and eager to start on new projects under the direction of expanding federal authority.

It cannot be said that Democrats as a whole see the picture the same way. They don't. Not all Democrats want motion for motion's sake When they hear their candidate complain that the United States is standing still, they wonder the same thing Republicans wonder.

The actor fellow's defense was that he whacked the beast across its front feet to keep it from digging holes and did this on the advice of a dog trainer.

The Red Chinese assert in unequivocable terms their purpose to take Taiwan by force. "They warn that the risk of war

The South's Dilemma

Voters Have Critical Election Decision

Whatever else the presidential election may bring, the outcome is certain to affect the political fate of the South more than any other region of the country. The possible impact of a Kennedy victory or a Nixon victory is being widely discussed in the South. of course, but even more pointed is the David Lawrence attitude of the so-called "liberal" bloc in the North which foresees in a Kennedy victory a chance to upset the very thing the southern Democrats in Congress have clung choosing chairmen of committees in both houses. Perhaps the most interesting expression on this point has come from the "New York Post," which, in announcing editorially its support for Sen. Kennedy, says in to advantageously for decades - namely, the seniority system in

"With respect to the great issue of civil rights, neither party can c'aim any large virtue. But on this front, too, the most meaningful immediate goal is to increase the representation of liberal Democrats in both houses

"The deadly bottleneck is the coalition of conservative Republicans and southern Democrats; under Nixon, as under Eisenhower, that coalition is likely to flourish, with Lyndon Johnson retaining his power as Senate leader; under Kennedy it may be finally challenged.

"Fearful as we were of Johnson's possible effect on the tone and substance of the Kennedy campaign, his replacement as Senate chieftain may finally enable liberal Democrats and Republicans to end the stalemate on civil rights.

"In larger terms it is surely plain that the fate of the Negro is inextricably involved with the fate of the general human community."

THE ARGUMENT of the professional Democrats throughout the South - those who hold office or are candidates for office on the Democratic ticket this autumn is that support must be given to the party as such and that in this way the influence of the South, through the seniority system in Congress, will be preserved.

Many of the professionals know they are going against local sentiment but they feel that it is expedient for them to be recorded in favor of the Democratic ticket.

In some instances, there are slates of independent electors on the ballot, the assumption being that, in a close race in the Electoral College, these states mar hold the balance of power.

The truth is that the people of the South have before them a critical decision. They would like to support their local political leaders, who, in the main, have borne the brunt of the "civil rights" struggle. But the big question is whether the coalition of conservative Republicans and southern Democrats in Congress will be preserved in the event of a Kennedy victory, or whether the dissolution of the bipartisan combination is likely.

Actually, the coalition means even more on a conservative or radical basis than it does in the "civil rights" controversy.

The South is for the most part conservative. Its businessmen fear the rise of the labor monopoly because many southern plants will will not be able to compete with northern businesses if unionization becomes extensive and new labor laws give the unions more and more power.

NOTWITHS TANDING these fears, the fact is that the Democratic party leaders in the South are for the most part supporting the Kennedy - Johnson ticket this time, and it will be interesting to see the extent to which the voters follow those leaders.

Many southern newspapers, hitherto backing a long line of democratic presidential nominees, have come out for Nixon. This may be one reason why news dispatches from the South in recent weeks say that there are many "doubtful" One thing attracting attention is the attitude of the Negro voters.

One report is that Richmond, Va., for instance, may be strongly Democratic this time because of the Negro vote Certainly this is a surprise but the Republicans may be in for mo surprises when they examine the Negro vote in several northern

Despite all that the Republicans did at Little Rock and about school integration and notwithstanding what they have done through the Department of Justice to help the Negroes in the South on voting rights, the northern Negroes do not appear to be grateful politically.

It is reported that in New York City, for instance, the Democratic ticket will get the largest support in years from the Negro voters.

THE DEFEAT of Republican nominees for Congress and the election of more and more Democrats from the so-called "liberal" side in the North will, of course, weaken the coalition if a Demo-

The people of the South are doubtless weighing all these factors, and that's why there is so much talk this year about a "close"

A few years ago the people of South Carolina elected a senator on a "write-in" basis, defeating the regular party nominee. The result was attributed to the influence of the newspapers as against the local party organization.

Not the least interesting of the stories that will be written after election day from different parts of the country will be the explanation of what the people of the South did

I think one of the greatest social forces gathering momentum in these times is the rising strength of the female majority in the United States. Women are this free nation's

No other nation ever has released the energy of the temale to the extent that it has been released here. This is a plus factor for America that makes the thermonuclear bomb seem like a cap pistol in any comparison of whooshiness.

Whoosh! That's the American female of the species going places. And in politics, unless I miss my guess, she is going to move in and take over the way she moved in and took over barbershops when bobbed hair came into style. The men are making their last stand.

Women already are doing most of the spadework in politics. This is the presidential year when experts think they may bust loose and do most of the voting, because due to the high death rate among perishable males women now outnumber men in the United States by millions.

This means that whenever women are ready to pull a coup d'etat at the ballot box, all they have to do is move in and take over. They can have their own way.

They can throw out all the rascals of the opposite sex and put in their own kind, if they think that would be an improvement. Or they can convert the men of this republic into servants, with themselves as masters, the way it used to be a few generations ago when women had no rights at all and men ran everything to suit themselves.

If I could hang on long enough, I am sure this country will have a woman president, a woman secretary of state, a woman secretary of the interior etc. If I hang on only until Election Day this year, I think I am going to see the next president of

My attention is automatically the United States elected because of the female factor in the cam-

Experts have been trying to make it appear that Jack Kennedy has the edge in appeal to women because he is generally acknow-

Matter of fact, he isn't ugly at all, except by comparison with men who are held to be good looking, whereas I am ugly, period. Anyway, the lady whose opinion I respect most of all says women mistrust men who are handsome because they always know they're attractive and never quit trying to make something of it, whereas men who know they're ugly finally realize their limitations and become reconciled to a routine existence.

Women helped to put Dwight Eisenhower into office; he wowed
